MELBOURNE, Feb. 17.

BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS)

NEWCASTLE.

THURSDAY.

The coroner held an inquest, to-day, on the body of James Cain, an old bushman, who was found dead in the bush yesterday. Deceased, according to the finding of the jury, met his death by the falling of a limb of a tree.

The Hon. Soul Samuel will visit Wallsend to-morrow for the purpose of laying the foundation stone of the new School of Arts.

A person giving the name of Alfred Roberts, and describing himself as a solicitor, was committed for trial to-day on a charge of obtaining goods from Mrs. Prayor, jeweller, by means of a valuable cheque.

ROCKY MOUTH.

THURSDAY.

David Muir experimented to-day at Cat's Mill with the monophaite process. The result so far is evidently satisfactory, considering the lateness of the season. The quantity of the one was 77.

MUDGEY.

THURSDAY.

An entertainment given by a few gentlemen on Wednesday evening, at the Gladysville Asylum, was highly appreciated, not only by a large number of visitors, but also by the inmates of this institution, who number in all about 600. The highest compliment that could have been paid to the patients, although perhaps a doubtful one to the invited guests, was the remark made by a gentleman that you could not tell "other from them." Great attention was paid by the patients to the several items offered for their amusement, and the applause was such as displayed a sense of criticism surprising to those who view these poor creatures in the light of the "Valentino Vox" school. Great credit reflects on Dr. Joseph, Mr. Batts, and assistants. Messrs. John Cowan, Benson Lee, Nat. Cohen, J. Castle, H. Cawshaw, and Morris Mensey carried the entertainment through to the satisfaction of all.

At a meeting of the Trades and Labour Council held last evening, the vice-president said that he had an interview with the Hon. F. B. Sutor, relative to the bill for the protection of workmen against defaulting contractors, and that that gentleman would be glad if anything could be suggested to make it a complete and satisfactory measure, to be made available with their views on the subject. The bill being an order of the day for Friday (to-day) there was no time to be lost. The secretary read the bill, and its several enactments were criticised.

The opinion of the majority of the meeting was that the bill was not adequate in its provisions to secure men from losses such as had been the experience of many who had worked under sub-contractors.

To the workmen, in the event of any failure from any cause on the part of the contractor, Messrs. Hardy, Royley, Walker, and White were appointed a committee to wait upon and confer with Mr. Sutor on the matter.

The Chinese bill was next spoken of with considerable dissatisfaction, and Messrs. Harris, White, and Cole were appointed to wait upon the Hon. Colonial Secretary about it. The Secretary was directed to write to the Secretary of the Captain Cook State Committee to inquire whether trade societies were produced from walking in the procession and taking part in the ceremony of unveiling; and if so, to publish the reply in the newspapers. Messrs. Royley and Harris brought up their report upon the half year's accounts, which, being audited, they found to be correct. The balance sheet was received and ordered to be printed for circulation among the affiliated societies. The secretary gave notice of his intention to retire from office at the next half-yearly meeting.

Messrs. F. von Mueller has just published another number of his Fragments Phytographia Australis, in which he describes one new species of the Cruciferous genus Erysimum, two of Triumfetta of the Titacca, one each of the Malvaceous genera Sida and Abutilon, and one of Euphorbia. To the large genus Acacia, already comprising 300 species, he has added descriptions of four new species, and of two, only imperfectly known; whilst to Swainsonia and Tephritis, he gives S. stenodonta and T. univirgata. The new composite genus, formerly connected with Myriophyllum, is now named Decaezia, in honour of the celebrated President of the Horticultural Society in Paris. Iponmea calobra, a plant of the convolvulus family, was amongst the aborigines for its large edible roots, a fact described from specimens procured at the Bay of Bengal. Under the Goodeniales we have a full account of Vellaya pandurina, a plant only partially described in the Flora Australiana, and supposed to be limited to the N.W. coast. The Hamelia had previously been given in his Lithographs of Victorian Plants, a second figure of V. connata, which furnishes a good idea of the genus, and now adds some valuable information respecting the new Governor is to be welcomed. And he comes at a critical time. So far as the future can be forecast his reign will be a troublous one. We are all looking forward with umpteen misgivings, but hoping, of course, that our may be darker than experience.

The Crooke investigation is over. The verdict of the jury does not legally incriminate Mr. Crooke, but its moral effect cannot be questioned. There is no doubt what the jury thought, and there is equally no doubt what the public think. Newspaper opinion is also unanimous, and in medical circles there was but one opinion from the first. The old proverb of the pitch going often to the well, and being broken at last, has been freely quoted. Since the termination of the inquest Mr. Crooke has resigned his position as a member of the Central Board of Health, making way for another Government creature, so that this Board will presently consist entirely of Bertie-blights. Considering how important are the duties of this Board, the inefficiency of its composition is unpleasantly suggestive.

A curious question has arisen as to whether it is the duty of the State, or, for the matter of that, of anybody else, to keep lepers alive. Mr. Beauchamp, a very useful public man in all matters relating to practical philanthropy has openly declared that it is a waste of money to prevent them dying. And a great many people agree with him, that to house them, and feed them on what are known as medical comforts, is an error in social economy, more especially as their misfortunes are in this part of the world, the result of their own bad conduct. The question requires a discussion commenced some years ago by a paper read before the Eclectic Association, entitled "The Use of Peoples' Ease," in which the author advocated the putting to death of confirmed vagrants and habitual criminals, by using them for physiological experiments. There was a great cry raised at the inhumanity of the proposal. Mr. Beauchamp is just now, by no means solitary in his opinion: for Melbourne swarms with vagrants, nearly all of whom have deliberately adopted that mode of life, and who refuse to follow any calling which involves the necessity of work. Indeed, it is to me quite unaccountable how the reputable portion of society so patiently endures the infliction of their presence and the cost of their maintenance. Every now and then the police chase them out of their retreats, and they lurk in doorways and blind alleys for awhile, but it is their delight to sleep all day in the sun-warmed gardens, of which we have many about this city, and to prowl about at nightfall, seeking what they can convert to their uses. They are beggars or thieves as occasion serves, and decent people live in terror and disgust at them. When they have drunk themselves into a condition of disease, they go into one of the hospitals, the Benevolent Asylum, or the Immigrants' Home, where they are ministered to as if they were valuable members of society and supplied with the luxuries which hard-working people purchase for them. An exaggerated philanthropist would say that this is quite right, but a disengaged sense of justice prompts Mr. Beauchamp to think differently, and, as I have said, he is not alone in his views. Decent people want to know why this cancer of vagrancy and crime should not be extirpated.

The cricket match commences to-morrow. The Victorians have a weak team.

An application was made in the Supreme Court to-day for a writ of habeas on behalf of Mr. Eltroy, one of the Kelly sympathisers, so frequently mentioned at Beechworth. The Court granted it, making it returnable on Tuesday, but afterwards some technical errors were found in the form of application, and proceedings were commenced de novo.

An order has been made for the compulsory sequestration of the estate of the Rev. Patrick Moore, a Roman Catholic clergyman.

The Governor has signed an extradition warrant for the removal of Nicholl Cooney, charged with robbery in New South Wales.

The weather has changed, and is very unsettled.

MELBOURNE, THURSDAY.

The presentation by the ladies of the colony to Lady Bowen took place this afternoon at Government House. It consisted of an illuminated address and a diamond and pearl locket, valued at 100 guineas. Mrs. Moonlight made the presentation. Lady Bowen, who was much affected in receiving it, said she regretted her departure for the colony. Subsequently the City Council presented an address to Governor Bowen, who made a suitable reply. There was a great number of ladies present at Lady Bowen's farewell reception. No fairway entertainment to the Governor is projected, and no leaves is to be held.

NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON, THURSDAY.

The Union Company's steamer Taupo struck a sunken rock on entering Tauranga. It was at first thought that she would be got off without injury, but it was ascertained yesterday that several holes had been made in the bottom of the ship under the engine, and the vessel was abandoned, a total wreck. The passengers and cargo are safe. The total insurance is £28,000, of which £10,000 is in colonial offices, including £5000 in Melbourne office.

The Governor leaves for the Bluff at noon to-day.

NEW ZEALAND EMIGRANTS FROM ENGLAND.

LONDON, THURSDAY.

The Lord Mayor of London (says the Times of December 20) has this week received a letter addressed from Coxham, in Pernambuco, and written by Mr. T. Beaufoy Green, on behalf of the 220 emigrants rescued from the burning ship Pinko. Many of the emigrants belonging to trades, besides having their clothing spilt by fire or salt water and losing their tools, have also lost the tools of their trades, and were therefore, in a state of great perplexity for beginning business in New Zealand. The Pinko took fire on the 2nd of January, but they fortunately sighted and signalled an English barque, the Loch Doon, Captain Canning, and were received on board and very kindly treated and accommodated, a few days before the remains of so small a ship would allow. They arrived Port Phillip on the 13th, just astern of the Pinko, which was still on fire, and were taken to the Loch Doon, Captain Canning, and were received on board and very kindly treated and accommodated, a few days before the remains of so small a ship would allow.

The wool show at Messrs. Hastings and Cunningham's is a most interesting exhibition. There is a pastoral calmness about those soft, silky fleeces, quite reassuring amid this turmoil of political strife, and this exhibition of hot corruption. They carry you away to grassy plains far from city noise and dust, and they suggest sources of wealth and prosperity, which revolutionaries do not. They are one body. Protestants are many disunited bodies. The Rev. Mr. Strong, therefore, is in advance of his time, and the time will not get up to him.

P U B L I C N O T I C E .

TO MY CONSTITUENTS OR CUSTOMERS, TO MY FRIENDS, AND TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW SOUTH WALES GENERALLY.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—I beg to thank you most sincerely for the kind assistance you have rendered me during the past three years, and on with success the business of the Royal Furnishing Arcade.

I desire now, after four years of very active business life, to RETIRE in favour of my son, who has entered such extraordinary phases that I feel unwilling to exhaust my remaining health in endeavouring to keep pace with his vagueness. Health and peace, even if with only a short time to live, would be well worth it if accompanied with utter prostration of body and mind.

Wishing to hope that this business under the conduct of my sons, may continue to deserve and to receive my kindly countenance.

I remain,
Your obedient servant,
W. B. CAMPBELL,
Royal Furnishing Arcade, George-street, Sydney, 1st January, 1879.

The real mode of CLEARING the IMMENSE STOCK necessary for carrying out the above object will be found under the furniture column of the SYDNEY MORNING HERALD, W. B. C. DALGETY, BLACKWOOD, and CO., Sydney.
